THURSDAY, FEBRUARY 28, 1907.

The average daily circulation of the Barre Daily Times for the week ending Saturday was copies, the largest paid circulation of any daily paper in this section.

4,405

Will it be a lion or a lamb tomorrow?

It's a case of Haley-Judah in Montpelier.

Harriman is trying to make out that Fish is a sucker.

What day is it? Look at the thermometer and see.

The mayor of Chicago denies that he's Dunne enough and wants another chance.

Two railroad wrecks and a terrible fire brought our Canadian neighbors into unwelcome prominence Tuesday.

For some reason or other, there is satisfaction in knowing that the wife of the prisoner has left the stand.

The Panama canal is getting to be a graveyard of ambitions, with the president as the chief mourner. But he doesn't mourn for long, for it's up and digging for him.

What a prestige! Senator Depew had an audience of eight senators when he made a "set speech" on the floor of the national assembly this week. It was almost a case of "whence all but he had fled."

The Northfield News touches on a good point when it says: "A good feature of the local option law is that the opponents of the saloon must act. They cannot become indifferent to the liquor question and sleep in security, feeling that they have a law which will take care of itself. This was too often the case under the old prohibition law, and while its friends were inactive the illegal liquor interests and dishonest officials flourished." Right you are, no more "smug satisfaction. A little stirring up now and then does not do any harm.

AN EMANCIPATION PROCLAMATION

And the Montpelier merchants have signed the emancipation proclamation also. It has been found in Barre that the fairs, bazaars, fish-ponds and what-nots have been able to get along without demanding tribute from the merchants in the shape of involuntary contributions or contributions of any sort. There must be also a sweeter spirit of self-respect in the minds of those who arrange for the fairs, etc.—a feeling of satisfaction that they are able to hoe their own row without receiving alms from others. The example deserves to spread.

VERMONT DROPS RANK.

From seventh to ninth place! That represents Vermont's drop in the standing of the sisterhood of states regarding the output of butter, cheese and condensed milk. It does not mean that the production of these articles dropped off, but that other states forged ahead of us—Michigan and California, to be explicit. Michigan rooted us out of the eighth place, and California coming up from the eleventh position in 1900 sent us still further down by making tremendous strides. These comparisons are revealed by the report of bulletin 64, census of manufactures, which has just been published. In the year 1900 there were in Vermont less establishments producing these three products than in 1900, less capital invested, fewer salaried officials, fewer wage-earners (but more wages paid), greater miscellaneous expenses and cost of materials, but, to offset all this, an increase in the value of products of a little short of a million dollars. In 1900 the total value was $6,416,434. In spite of it, Vermont drops two notches. New York easily retains the first place in the amount of output, with a total of $31,947,776, while Wisconsin also keeps the second place and just a bit behind New York; and Iowa keeps thirds with a little over fifteen millions. Illinois, which made a smaller increase than Vermont, is still fourth, and Minnesota and Pennsylvania come next.

It would not take long to explain the reason why Vermont has dropped from seventh to ninth position in this purely agricultural tabulation. The reason is found in the growing practice of Vermonters of sending their milk and cream direct to the larger cities to satisfy the demand of the consumer. Just what proportion of milk goes direct from Vermont to Boston and a few other cities would be difficult to estimate, but it is certain that the amount is large. In some cases special milk trains are run to carry the product. This business has developed largely during the past few years. It therefore in a large measure accounts for the decrease in the number of creamery establishments and the number of men employed, there being 34 less creameries now and 67 less employees, with the consequent loss in standing of the state in the output of agricultural products. But there is one satisfaction, that if we are losing agriculturally, we are gaining in the purely industrial pursuits, such as quarrying and manufacturing.

SOUTH BARRE.

There was a good attendance at the meeting Sunday.

JINGLES AND JESTS.

They'd Be Grateful.
 "I have never taken the trouble to trace my ancestry."
 "Well, if your ancestors could speak they would probably thank you for that."—Brooklyn Life.

A Kick Coming.
 There was an old teacher named Thwack. Who sat on his chair with a whack. And remarked on arising.
 "You may think it surprising.
 But I don't like this kind of attack."
 —New York Life.

Getting a Head.
 "You can't ever get ahead, my son, so long as you dissipate so."
 "Can't, eh? Can't get a head? I'd like to know how you think I got this one."—Judge.

The Miser.
 They tell you his heart will not soften. At sight of the woes of the poor.
 Yet he loosens his purse strings quite often.
 He has to when putting in more.
 —Catholic Standard and Times.

After an Improvement.
 Bacon—Does he favor spelling reform?
 Egbert—I guess so. He's just got a new typewriter.—Yonkers Statesman.

Test Your Credit.
 Because his credit wasn't good. Man has often sorrowed.
 This is the sort of weather when Umbrellas should be borrowed.
 —Cleveland Plain Dealer.

The Real Boss.
 "Do you mind the motion of the ship much?"
 "No, I don't, but I haven't heard from the inner man yet."—Puck.

Show Him to Us.
 We'll lift our hats, we all agree. To any man more bright than we.
 But not a soul of us, you see. Believes that such a man can be.
 —Houston Post.

The Oratory of Galleries.
 The oldest Christian structure in Ireland is a remarkable building, evidently very ancient, but wonderfully well preserved, at Dingle, in County Kerry. It is known as "the Oratory of Galleries" and has stood practically unaltered for more than a thousand years.

Old Time Fencing.
 In sixteenth century fencing the sword was held in the right hand and a dagger in the left to ward off blows.

TOPSHAM.

James McKay was home from Bradford over the Sabbath.

Mrs. Maud Wilson returned home from Corinth last Wednesday.

Miss Lena Leet was home from her school at Bradford over Sunday.

Orange Butler and Mrs. Ida Emerson are both ill with the prevailing distemper.

Topsham creamery paid its milk patrons for February 32½ cents, cream patrons, 33 cents.

Mrs. Welton of Bradford Center, who has been caring for Mrs. Robert Brown returned home on Tuesday.

George Taplin, Charles Currier, Garland Currier and Mrs. Duncan McKay attended the funeral of Forrest Mills at South Ryegate last Thursday.

The fire at East Corinth last Sunday morning caused much excitement here in our village, and quite a number of the citizens had started to go down and assist them, but fortunately the flames extinguished before much harm was done.

Loren Williams a former resident of this town died at his home in East Corinth January 29, aged 53 years. His disease was pulmonary tuberculosis. He is survived by a wife and eight children. The funeral services were conducted by Rev. J. C. Wright.

Mrs. Jesse McKay went to South Ryegate on Tuesday to be absent a few weeks.

Mrs. G. L. McLam has been quite ill with the prevailing distemper, but is slowly convalescing.

Mrs. Oscar Merritt had a bad attack of heart trouble last Friday, which has left her feeling poorly.

Rev. A. J. Hough delivered a fine sermon at the M. E. church last Sunday from these words: "This one thing I do." Philippians 13, second clause, 15th verse.

A telegram received last Saturday morning stated that Rev. P. L. Reynolds was ill at Plattsburg, N. Y., consequently there was no preaching service at the R. P. church last Sunday.

EAST MONTPELIER.

The Ladies' Aid of the Universalist church will give an entertainment and supper followed by dancing in the village hall this week Thursday evening. The public is cordially invited.

Don't You Like This Town?

You live here. Your business interests are here. Your home is here.

You are reading a Mail Order Catalogue. That indicates that you are not spending your money in this town. You are spending it with strangers in a big city. That city has no use for this town except to get your money.

This town has use for your money. If spent here, your money will help to build up the town. It will help to build up your own business.

In the long run more of your money will come back to you if you spend it at home than if you send it to Chicago or some other large city. You spend a dollar with Smith, up the street. Smith spends it with Brown, around the corner. Brown is just as likely to spend it with you as with anybody else. Did you ever think of that?

All of us have to spend money. There is an art in spending it where it will do the most good. If spent so that it will circulate around this town and community, it will help this town and community. You belong to this town and community. Therefore it will help you. Isn't that good logic?

Suppose you think it over next time you pick up the Mail Order Catalogue.

Odd Books.

In the British museum are books written on oyster shells, bricks, tiles, bones, ivory, lead, iron, copper, sheepskin, wood and palm leaves.

Tenspin.

The regulation tenspin is fifteen inches high and fifteen inches in circumference at the largest part and two and one-fourth inches in diameter at the base. Pins are sometimes made shorter and sometimes longer and bigger for family alleys, so that they may be knocked down more easily, but fifteen inches is the regulation height.

Boils.
 A person suffering with boils should eat wheat pastry, gravies and every kind of meat excepting lean mutton. The boils may be brought to a head by using a warm poultice of camomile flowers or boiled white lily root, by fermentation with hot water or by stimulating plasters.

Anti-Itis Cures SORE THROAT

For Sale by Rickett & Wells.

"UNIVERSAL" COFFEE PERCOLATOR

Makes better coffee because it does not require boiling water. All other percolators do. It is boiling water that causes the bitterness, destroys the flavor and brings out the unwholesome properties of the coffee bean.

In less than one minute after heat is applied the automatic valve at the base of the tube forces the water—lukewarm, not boiling—up the tube on to the coffee in the filter cup, percolating through into the pot beneath.

It is by this method of constantly forcing the water through the coffee, while it gradually increases in temperature, that only the wholesome and nourishing elements of the coffee bean are extracted.

By the time the boiling point is reached the coffee is ready to serve—rich in strength and aroma for they have not been lost in steam—free from bitterness, for it has not been boiled.

Made of pure aluminum, four sizes, $3.50 up; "Elite" enamel ware, colors, light blue and sage green, $2.50 up.
